TCA WELCOMES GLOBAL NAME INTO THE INTELLIGENT ACCESS PROGRAM (IAP)

Transport Certification Australia Limited (TCA), the organisation administering the Intelligent Access Program (IAP), has announced that IAP Service Provider, Vehicle Management Systems Pty Ltd (VMS) has changed its name to Ctrack Pty Ltd (Ctrack).

Mr Chris Koniditsiotis, Chief Executive Officer of TCA, welcomed the change, stating that 'Ctrack is already a name well established in European, Asian and African markets.'

Mr Max Verberne, Managing Director of Ctrack, said 'the local adoption of the Ctrack name was prompted by Digicore Holdings increasing their stake in VMS to become a majority shareholder.'

'At Ctrack we support more than 1,200 customers across Australia and New Zealand, with over 600,000 of our devices and services in use globally,' Mr Verberne said.

'We see an increasing awareness and adoption of certified telematics in the Australian road transport sector, which has grown through the expanding use of the IAP,' Mr Verberne said.

Mr Verberne said that TCA certification provides our IAP customers with assurance that our organisation is continually meeting the very highest standards across our business, including technology, business systems, organisational processes and customer service.

Mr Koniditsiotis was keen to stress that the name change will have no effect on the IAP services already being received by customers of VMS.

'I look forward to working with Ctrack to support the growing needs of the road transport sector and governments now and into the future,' Mr Koniditsiotis said.

Only IAP Service Providers can provide IAP services.
